Boating Season Opens

The River Canard Outboard Racing Club held its monthly meeting in April and passed the following items:

Belle River Committee - To assist the Belle River Chamber of Commerce in the drawing up of details for the regatta which is to be held on Sunday, July 8th at Belle River.

Chairman — Peter Stark.

Assistants - Jim Cope, Roger Dresser, Paul McCullough & Jerry Rice.

Sunday, April 29th was set up as a work day, with work to be done on the pit area, club house to be repainted and the rebuilding of the river bank.

A group of drivers and their wives plan to attend the Amherst, Malden and Anderdon Sportsmen's Association Banquet which is to be held on April 25th at the Anderdon Tavern.

Gordon Milne reported on the meeting with the Anderdon Township Council on restricted hours for testing. These are May 26th, June 16th, July 21st, August 18th and September 8th from 1:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. Regatta dates are May 27th, June 17th, July 22nd, August 19th and September 9th from 1:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. Any club member violating these hours will be suspended from the club activities for the period of one year.

A radio programme giving advice to the ladies recently had some wisdom it would be well for all Canadians to ponder.

"Lettuce will keep better and is less likely to turn brown if you wrap your head in a towel before you put it in the refrigerator."

Square Dances Resumed

The second series of Modern Square Dances for Married Couples will begin on Saturday, April twenty eight at Immaculata School gym.

Mr. Miller, from Detroit, will be the instructor and caller.

Where Will It End?

Realism recently approached the dairy industry but has not yet caught up with it. An organization of dairy farmers of Canada has recommended to the government that the price of butter be reduced by 14 cents a pound but that the government-guaranteed floor price of 64 cents be maintained.

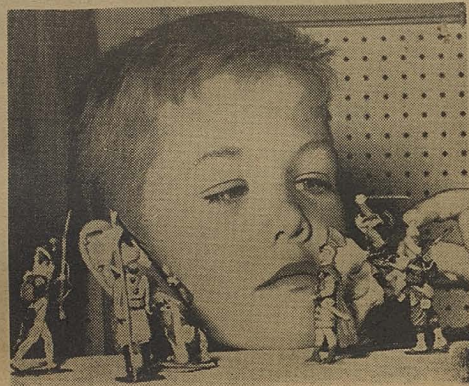

The appallingly large surplus of butter in storage is due to the fact that the floor price encourages production regardless of consumer demand. Consumers in great numbers are mean enough or so frugal that they buy margarine that looks like lard but tastes like butter at a price that saves money for the consumer. On bargain days this saving can be as much as 50 cents a pound.

Who can blame the housewife who thinks she must skimp? There are rumors that even dairy farmers in New York state (but not in Canada, of course) serve margarine on their own tables because they cannot afford to consume a price-supported product.

An urban resident who dislikes the very thought of producing his own food may agree that a farmer should be well paid for meeting the needs and wishes of consumers in town and country. But a steady increase in the surplus of a food product is proof that the concomitant price support is excessive. How can the farmers and politicians get price and demand in proper relationship, especially now that one of the largest retail distributors of dairy products is selling the butter substitute off the milk wagons?

Still it cannot be forgotten that cows must be milked at inconvenient hours, and on Sundays and holidays with no double or triple-time pay for the farmer.

Many letters to the editor of the dear old London Times end with the question, — Where will it all end? and echo answers — Where?

DAY DREAMS, Steven Skalitsky, 7, looks down at these miniature soldiers, authentic down to the last lacquered stitch, and hopes he can one day save them as a hobby. They're not toys—pieces similar to the above sold for $500 to $1,000 at a recent auction in Germany.

Hort. Society Holds Banquet

Thursday, April twenty-sixth, has been set as the date for the Annual Spring Banquet of the Greater Windsor Horticultural Society, to be staged at the Calvary United Church on University West at six-thirty.

Conveners of the Banquet are: Mrs. B. F. Carson and Mrs. George Stevenson. Tickets; and Mrs. W. A. Donaldson - Publicity. Tickets are sold at $1.60 per person — please get them one week in advance from any of the convenors. You will enjoy a sumptuous country style Turkey Dinner and prizes galore.

Entertainment will be provided by the pupils of the Luciano School of Music: Musical Selections. Duet by Joe and Bob Stump and Timothy Lutzac and Alfred Wells.

The public is welcome.

Provinces Sign Vehicle Agreement

"A third Reciprocity Agreement with respect to the operation of operation of commercial motor vehicles between provinces was signed recently, this one between the Province of Saskatchewan and this province." Transport Minister Rowntree has announced.

The signing of this agreement agreement now provides reciprocity between the Province of Ontario and the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

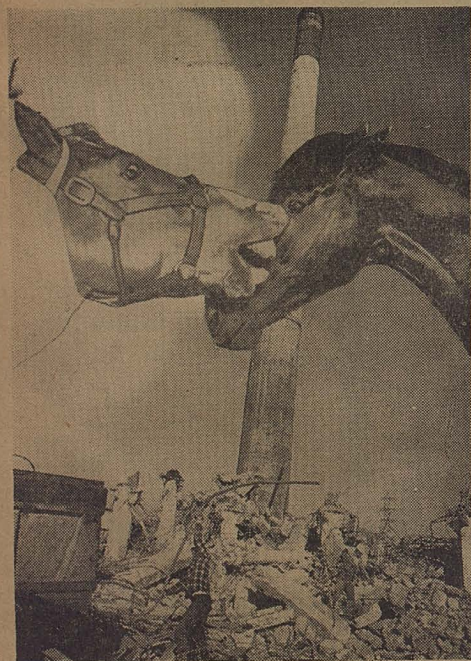

Mr. Rowntree repeated his hope that before too long there would be

Jaycees Announce Election Results

The Windsor Jaycees have announced the results of their recent elections for the Executive and Board of Directors which will guide the organization for the year between June First of this year until June first of next year.

The following are the new Executive and Board of Directors: President: Les Freedenberg First Vice-Pres: Jack Smith Second Vice-Pres: Ron Wilkinson Third Vice-Pres: Walt Taylor Treasurer: Keith Allen Secretary: Doug Kovack Directors: Al Fletcher, Doug Gardner, Bill Gee, Don Klinck, Len LaJeunesse, Tony Mifaud, Lyle Manery, Frank Oreskevich.

complete inter-provincial agreement between all ten provinces. At that time, the Minister said, the benefits now enjoyed by the four participating provinces would accrue to each of the other provinces, and that such agreement would be beneficial to the overall economy of the country.

ENJOYING a horse laugh, these two fillies watch with glee as a wrecking crew tears down a glue factory in Toronto. Even the chimney tower, last reminder of the factory's existence, will be knocked down — and that's straight from the horse's mouth.

You Can Never Tell

He was a tall, stocky man of 55 years of age, working in an iron foundry in Southern Ontario. He had seven children, eight grandchildren, a little house long ago paid for, a garden which he tended himself, a car, and a small cottage at a lake nearby which he and his wife enjoyed each weekend.

Life was very good, very pleasant, and he had no worries. His wife, years younger than himself, was still a very pretty woman, immersed her home and family, and as fit physically as he had always been. He had little patience with people who went to their doctors for checkups when there was obviously nothing wrong with them.

So that it was quite natural, when the film was to be shown in the foundry, that he would not want to see it. The foreman was put out. Management had arranged for the showing of the film, and the employees - all of them - should attend, he said. When the nurse arrived with the film, the man grudgingly took a seat with the rest of the employees, and grudgingly watched the reel unfold. A lot of nonsense, he told himself, these warning signals for cancer.

But then something clicked, began to spin around in his mind. A vague memory of something his wife had said as they dressed one morning, floated up to the surface of his mind, spun around, stopped becafe focussed behind his eyes, and he could hear his wife's cheerful voice: "You know, it's a funny thing, I've a small lump on my breast — I wonder what it is". And his answer to her, nonchalant, bantering: "If that's all that's worrying you, stop right now. At our age, my dear, we can't expect to remain the same for ever."

His eyes focussed on the film. The warning signals on the screen had come and gone. What had they been? He couldn't remember, he had been paying so little attention.

After the film was over, and the nurse had given her talk, he rather sheepishly went up to her and told her about his wife. "Do you think it could mean anything?" he asked her. The nurse assured him there was only one way to find out. "Be sure and see that she goes to your family doctor".

That evening, sitting at dinner, he told his wife about the film. "Maybe you should see a doctor, Kate", he said. "I wouldn't want anything to happen to you. And that cancer film really made me think...."

The wife went to a doctor within a week. Within two weeks she was operated on. The benign growth was removed, and the husband has ceased to feel that there is no need for health checkups. "You can never tell" is what he says to his colleagues now. "You never can tell. We were lucky. Kate did not have cancer — if it had been, well the fact that she got to her doctor early could have saved her life."

In the files of the Canadian Cancer Society's Mobile Little Red Door are hundreds of such stories. The Society's Mobile Little Red Doors is the strongest arm of industrial cancer education in Ontario. It reaches into the very heart of industry, with a vital cancer message that saves many lives in the province every year, and is only one of very many services offered free to the citizens of this province.

BIG THRILLER—STARTING JUNE 18!

True Love?

The waitress went along for several days, trying to restrain her curiosity. Each coffee break, one customer would order two cups, but drink from only one. He was a real addict, usually having several cups; and each time ordering an extra cup, which he kept across the table from him. One morning, the waitress could stand it no longer, so she asked how come. The customer explained the other cup was for his girl in Winnipeg. The waitress thought this was charming, love in the springtime and faithful even at such a long distance away.

A few weeks later, however, the addict took to ordering only one cup at a time. The waitress was sad, thinking the love affair had broken up. Finally, she asked the man about it.

"We are deeply in love", said the customer; "but I've sworn off coffee." He took a sip from the cup. "This is my girls'.

World's Needy Children Are Countless

Suppose tomorrow you were sent to some country half way around the world where tens of thousands of children were living in stark, abject poverty, and you were given enough money to help just a few hundred, or even a thousand or more — where would you start?

This is the question which becomes very real to the overseas directors of Foster Parents Plan when they begin their merciful work in such countries as France, Greece, Italy, South Vietnam, South Vietnam, South Korea, the Philippines and Hong Kong. And while they know that some help is better than none, there is always the heart-breaking knowledge that for every one aided there are dozens more, equally deserving, who will never have the chance to share in the money, the clothes, the food, medical care, love and kindness made possible by Canadian and American groups and individuals who are "foster parents".

A REMINDER ABOUT CONTINENT-WIDE DIRECT DISTANCE DIALING

in WINDSOR, AMHERSTBURG, LaSALLE, MAIDSTONE, MCGREGOR, TECUMSEH

Since Sunday, April 15th, Bell Telephone's DDD equipment has been connected with the complete Direct Distance Dialing network in Canada and the United States. You are now able to dial almost any telephone number in North America directly!

Here — as a quick reminder — is the way to dial your own Long Distance calls: (This example uses the Eastern Michigan area code and a sample number)

(To connect with the DDD equipment in your own local exchange)

313

(or other 3 digits designating the Area Code of the place you are calling)

KL 5-2368

(the distant number you want to reach)

All Long Distance calls dialed directly from individual and 2-party line telephones in Windsor, will be completed straight through without the Operator asking for your telephone number. Should you reach a wrong number, please hang up, call your Long Distance Operator and give her the details; you will not be billed for the call.

When Windsor multi-party line customers and customers in all other communities receiving this new service dial a DDD call, the Operator will ask for the number from which they are calling. Please give her the number — the call will then be completed automatically.

Pages 6 to 12 of your Telephone Directory contain full information and instructions, including the area codes of many places in Canada and the United States which you can reach directly with DDD. If you have any doubts or questions, please call your Long Distance Operator — she will be happy to help you!

Dymond Discusses Health in Ontario

Alcoholism

Article 2 of a 4-part series.

Matthew B. Dymond, MD, CM.
Ontario Minister of Health

Last week we established that alcoholism is a serious disorder affecting men and women in our province in almost epidemic proportions. We noted that there are more than 90,000 alcoholics in Ontario today.

The Government's program to control and reduce this disorder is planned and administered by the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, 24 Harbord Street, Toronto 5. Executive director of the Foundation is H. David Archibald, a man who has earned an international reputation in the field of alcoholism control. He has headed up the organization since its inception in 1949.

The Addiction Research Foundation was originally concerned only with addiction to alcohol, but its operations have now been extended to cover addiction to narcotics and to other drugs. This is a logical step, since many of the same personality factors are found in addicts to various substances, and since it is not uncommon for some alcohol addicts at a stage in their development to switch their dependence to barbiturates or other comforting drugs.

The Foundation's program of research, treatment, and education has grown consistently over the past 10 years, following promising research leads, trying out new treatment methods and modifying old ways, and building up a far-reaching system of public education and professional training.

From the start these three essential areas of endeavour have been encouraged to grow in harmony, since they are inter-dependent.

The Foundation has now reached the point where it can give treatment to some 2,000 alcoholics each year, and a further expansion of treatment facilities is contemplated. It was never the Government's intention, however, that the Foundation should attempt to treat all the alcoholics in our province. This is the task of a much larger body of people—physicians, social workers, nurses, members of the clergy and others who in the course of their daily work come in contact with alcoholic men and women. A major part of the Foundation's job is to feed to these people up-to-date information and know-how that they may be better equipped to deal constructively with the alcoholic.

In our province of six million people, it is felt that the Foundation should set up a clinic about the size of its present branches in London, Ottawa, and Hamilton, for every 150,000 population. This could be the general rule-of-thumb, but major urban centres might have somewhat larger establishments because large cities have both more people and a higher rate of alcoholism as well.

Just what happens to a person when he is admitted as a patient to the Foundation's only in-patient hospital, a 15-bed unit in Toronto? That will be the subject of my next column related to alcoholism.

Any questions on the work of the Department of Health in this field, or suggested topics for these columns, should be sent to the Director of Information and Publicity, Ontario Department of Health, Queen's Park, Toronto.
